The 'Fifth' of July

July 5, 2005

Yesterday, Americans celebrated the nations birthday, 229 years after our Founding Fathers declared the American Colonies to be "independent" from the authority and tyranny of the King of England and the English Parliament.

On July 3rd, 1776, John Adams, in a letter to his wife Abigail, said it would be "celebrated...as the great anniversary Festival and that it ought to be commemorated, as the Day of Deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty."

'Solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty'!

How far we have drifted!

During the nationally televised celebration on the Capitol Mall, Master of Ceremonies John Larroquette, self proclaimed libertarian and 4-time Emmy winner, quoted the first and last part of Adam's famous quote...but left out the above statement...most assuredly because it did not fit what he and many others in America want Americans to think, i.e., that our nation's founding and blessing had nothing to do with the God of creation and our 'deliverance' from tyrants, nor should our celebration of it include 'solemn acts of devotion' to Him.

But it should be no surprise. The left has successfully eroded, undermined, and disfigured our Christian Heritage in the last 58 years since Everson vs. School Board in 1947. The Supreme Court, in Everson, turned the establishment clause of the First Amendment upside down as if they preferred the secular animus toward Christendom found in the Soviet Constitution.

It was Everson that created out of thin air and without precedent or reference to any previous decision of the Court, the secular view that Separation of Church and State was the intent of the Founders, when in fact, there is no supporting evidence whatsoever to that claim . The result has been moral, legal and social chaos.

Brilliant Constitutional Scholar Judge Robert Bork, the first victim of the deadly left in America, made the following statement in today's Wall Street Journal:

"The justices have weakened the authority of other institutions, public and private, such as schools, businesses, and churches; assisted in sapping the vitality of religion through a transparently false interpretation of the establishment clause; denigrated marriage and family; destroyed taboos about vile language in public; protected as free speech the basest pornography, including computer-simulated child pornography; weakened political parties and permitted prior restraints on political speech, violating the core of the First Amendment's guarantee of freedom of speech; created a right to abortion virtually on demand, invalidating the laws of all 50 states; whittled down capital punishment, on the path, apparently, to abolishing it entirely; mounted a campaign to normalize homosexuality, culminating soon, it seems obvious, in a right to homosexual marriage; permitted racial and gender discrimination at the expense of white males; and made the criminal justice system needlessly slow and complex, tipping the balance in favor of criminals. "Justice O'Connor, a warm, down-to-earth, and very likeable person, joined many, though not all, of these bold attempts to remake America. Whatever one may think of these outcomes as matters of policy, not one is authorized by the Constitution and some are directly contrary to it (italics and boldface mine). All of them, however, are consistent with the left-liberal liberationist impulse that advances moral anarchy."

In an interview on CNN on Friday, July 1st, Judge Bork said, "It's really a cultural fight now. The Supreme Court has made itself into a political and a cultural institution rather than a legal institution, so that both sides see it in political terms."

Without our apparent notice or concern, America has been delivered once again, but this time not to the Author of our liberty, and to Which John Adams referred, but back to an oligarchy, i.e., 'rule by a few,' the futility and foolishness of which our Founders declared us free in July of 1776.

'Solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty!'

Pray for the President of the United States, his advisors, the Senate, and all those who understand the importance of the upcoming nomination to replace Sandra Day O'Connor. The nominee must be one who will uphold the original intent of the Founders, and keep us free, not one who adheres to "the left-liberal liberationist impulse that advances moral anarchy."

Whoever is nominated, the battle for America's future as a nation "Under God" may well become America's second 'Declaration of Independence' but this time, from our own 'oligarchy,' an 'activist' Supreme Court and their 'fifth column' * 'tories' who are committed to a different 'king.' May it not become our second 'Civil War'.

*'Fifth' column: "A body of persons residing in a country who are in sympathy with its enemies, and who are servicing enemy interests or are ready to assist an enemy attack." American College Dictionary
